She taught and studied in Montreal and Japan and has travelled widely, spending time in West Africa, Latin America, Europe, and Asia. Since coming to Camosun in 2003, she has had the opportunity to teach English to students of all levels and backgrounds. Her experience includes chairing a workplace English program for internationally trained professionals and conducting teacher training with partners from China, Vietnam, Cuba, and Panama.

Judith likes to seek out challenges and learning opportunities, and this has led her to take on various instructional and administrative roles at the college during her years here. She has an MA in Linguistics from the Université de Montréal and speaks fluent French, intermediate Spanish and Japanese, and basic Mandarin and Portuguese.
